

CRESLER WAS JUST A LITTLE CARELESS ABOUT HIS CHECKS

And Absent Minded About His Board Bills.

HAS SOME FRIENDS WHO WOULD LIKE TO SEE HIM IN SHAWNEE

C. C. Cresler, who has been employed as draper and decorator at the Golden Rule dry goods store was arrested early yesterday morning by Officer Frank Rossi on a drunk and disorderly charge. He was released later, but it is likely that a warrant will be issued against him today on the charge of beating a board bill for forty dollars, in this city, as the landlady has preferred a vigorous accusation to that effect. Cresler is also wanted by certain persons in Shawnee, Oklahoma, whom he owes various sums of money on various checks and notes. He has been in this city a few weeks and during his brief sojourn here has not made for himself the most enviable reputation possible. When jailed yesterday morning a ten dollar bill was all the money found on his person. He made considerable resistance when it came to parting with the aforesaid greenback and when he was at last separated from it the note was neatly torn in halves.

CLARK GETS THIRTY DAYS FOR PETTY LARCENY
Allen Clark, formerly of the Meadow city of San Miguel county, who was arrested for stealing some horse-drawn apparatus from the stable of W. L. Trimble and company on Copper avenue, where he was employed, was found guilty in Judge Crawford's court yesterday morning and sent to the county retreat for thirty days for petty larceny.

T. T. Shanks and W. C. Skully, who fled to this city from the Belen cut-off when they were offered employment on the railroad were put to work on the streets for being vagrants.

ABANDONED WIFE LOOKING FOR ONE A. C. CHENEY

Evidently the deserted wives in all parts of the United States have taken pity on the police department and started to work on the railroad men. At least this is true in the case of one Mrs. A. C. Cheney, of Oakland, California, who has sent agent H. S. Lutz of the Santa Fe the following letter:

H. S. Lutz, Dear Sir: Would you please let me know whether there is an A. C. Cheney in your employ, either as freight or passenger brakeman, or in any capacity. He has deserted his wife and child here and has taken another woman down there with him. I implore you to let me know as soon as possible, for I am his wife.

"MRS. A. C. CHENEY."

Mr. Lutz at last accounts was unable to give the information asked by the abandoned spouse of Mr. Cheney and it is likely that upon publication of this letter Mr. Cheney will not make any strenuous efforts to have his identity made public.

ARRESTED THE SCORCHERS.

Prominent St. Louis Autoists Stopped by Shotgun Brigade.

St. Louis, Nov. 2.—A force of deputies armed with shotguns and appointed by the sheriff under authority of the St. Louis county court, patrolled the St. Louis county roads for the first time today to prohibit automobile scorching. Among the prominent automobiles detained were Marion Lambert, vice president of a pharmaceutical company; August Gehner, capitalist; F. H. Britton, general manager of the Cotton Belt railway, and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kerens. Mr. Kerens is the son of Colonel R. C. Kerens, recently nominee for the United States senate. The chauffeurs were charged with exceeding the speed limit and released on bond pending trial next Thursday.

The shotgun patrolmen, stationed along the roads, used stop watches and then stopped the automobiles with leveled shotguns.

Planned Raid on Park.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 2.—It was learned today that William Leduc, who killed Mayor Nickel and Stockman Hugh P. Jones at Chicago Saturday, planned a raid on the bank with hope of escape. He visited his mother's home Saturday and bade her farewell, saying that he intended to leave the country. The loss of $4,000 in the settlement with his wife after she left him and negotiated through Nickel, his brother-in-law, is believed to have preyed on his mind that he hoped to recoup his losses through a raid on the bank and escape. The marvelously quick gathering of people on the streets prevented his plans and he was forced to retreat to the vault. He burned $1,000 in paper money in the vault, but left the silver untouched.

Empty Was the Cradle.

Engineer Cook, late of the Mina Grande shaft at Cananea, has returned to his work. A few days ago he hoisted a cage to find it empty, where it should have contained a Mexican miner. The miner was found at the bottom of the shaft, dead, having fallen from the cage. The engineer promptly fled, to avoid the customary incarceration in a Mexican prison with the case was cleared up. The Mexican authorities found that the miner's death was due to his own carelessness, so Cook came back.

HOFFMAN ONLY SURVIVOR OF GRINDELL PARTY

BECOMING MORE APPARENT THAT EXPEDITION WAS A "TENDERFOOT" ONE.

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 2.—J. E. Hoffman, of the Grindell party, who arrived in Guaymas three days ago, undoubtedly is the only member of the expedition left alive. For weeks he had been drifting down the coast eating shellfish and living for days at a time without other water than that secured from chewing cactus pulp. Finally he fell in with several Mexican fishermen, who cared for him kindly and eventually brought him to Guaymas.

Though broken in body and mind from his sufferings, Hoffman expresses his willingness to accompany a searching party back up the coast, to the point where his companions started into the desert from the seashore. From his description it is apparent that the expedition was of the "tenderfoot" kind, illly provided against the perils of the waterless land. It was

In June that T. F. Grindell, Hoffman, "Doc" Rawlins and one Ingraham left Douglas, bound for Tiburón Island, in the Gulf of California, where Grindell reported he had heard of a great gold ledge. The Papago guide who was found lately in Hermosillo, gave them satisfactory service, but left the party a day's march from the coast. With a water supply of only four five-gallon oil cans of water, the men made the coast somewhere north of Tiburón. A couple of days later they arrived opposite the island, which is separated from the mainland only by a shallow strait, of several miles in width, that is even dry in very low tides. An attempt to wade over to the island had to be abandoned, as the tide was running strong, and the water came up to the men's armpits. Hoffman tried distilling water, but did not succeed. The party then tried to find a ranch of which they had heard. The men were on foot, except for burros, their horses having been lost before they struck the coast. With two of the best burros, Rawlins pushed on ahead. The others found his camp a couple of days later, nearly lying one of the burros, that had died of thirst. Then Grindell left his companions, following after Rawlins, and never was seen again. This was about June 29. Ingraham became delirious from thirst and tried to kill Hoffman, who finally had to leave him. It is probable he died very soon after, as he had no water.

Captain Rynning of the Arizona Rangers has gone to Hermosillo, whence he will lead a second searching party into the desert coast country, though with no hope of finding more than the bodies of the Americans. A Mexican party already has started.

TWENTY THOUSAND GO TO THE COAST ON COLONIST RATES

Enormous Santa Fe Traffic to California.

OVER HUNDRED EXTRA TOURIST CARS USED DURING LAST MONTH

Early this morning several hours late eight big passenger trains went through over the Santa Fe bound for California. Each one was loaded to its fullest capacity with passengers taking advantage of the last of the colonist rates from Chicago to California, which expired in Chicago Nov. 1. The trains ran as four sections of No. 1 and four sections of No. 7 and each was a good sized train in itself. In the tourist cars and day coaches every single seat was occupied and many were standing—people of all nationalities and all walks in life, all speeding on their way to California drawn by the magic of the name and fame of the Golden State and incidentally by the low price of a ticket. While the Pullmans are not so heavily crowded nevertheless berths in the standards are at a premium and in short there seems to be a grand migration of people of all degrees to the Pacific coast for the winter.

"The Santa Fe has sold between fifteen and twenty thousand of these cheap one way tickets to the coast," said a railroad man last night. "As the first of November, the date of the expiration of the low rates, has approached the offices in Chicago have almost been swamped to take care of the applicants for tickets. What becomes of these people is a mystery to me. Every year it is the same—thousands and thousands of travelers, most of them people who appear to have no money to speak of go through to the coast on one way rates and apparently that is the last we see of them. I wonder sometimes whether they go on to China or whether they jump into the Pacific. Many of course are real home-seekers who settle in California, and develop into substantial farmers and ranchmen and one thing and another. But there is no accounting for all of them."

Considerably over 100 extra tourist cars have been in use on the system between Chicago and Los Angeles during the past two or three weeks, and they have not been enough to accommodate the traffic. A great many Northern Pacific cars have been going through lately and rolling stock of other roads has been in evidence. There will be little noticeable diminution in the traffic after the close of the colonist rates as the company counts on the biggest regular California business on record this winter.

A Los Angeles dispatch says: With baggage heaped up in great stacks and the number of pieces increasing with the arrival of every train, the passenger depots of railway lines in this city present a sight never before witnessed. The colonist rush from the east is at its height, and since Saturday trains have been arriving in sections.
